TONIGHT'S PLAY IS OF NEW ENGLAND LIFE

Willard Company Concludes Week and Will Play One Night on Return
—Coming Attractions at McKissick's Opera House

"Quincy Adams Sawyer," the play taken from the book by the same name, which has been termed "The Best New England story ever written," will be presented at McKissick's opera house tonight. The play like the book is a story of New England home life, full of all the feelings and sentiments that are natural to such life. The young man from whom the book and the play have their titles is a wealthy young Boston lawyer who goes into the country for his health. He finds a beautiful woman, a blind girl, who wins his love, and their courtship and devotion is very beautiful. The play is full of unique and interesting characters. The scenic equipment is most elaborate of all built special for this production, which competent critics have predicted will easily rival the success of any New England play ever presented. The cast is a good one and it has received flattering press notices from all sources.

The closing scene is particularly touching. As one paper has stated in commenting upon it, "The threads of the story are gathered together, and as the denouement that brings with it a feeling of peace, the moon beams falling upon the snow, white, without, make a picture long to be remembered." The country family and their guests gather around the upper table and the venerable Deacon Macon invokes the divine blessing. This touch of simplicity, of honest faith, is one of the most powerful bits in modern drama and many a soul is comforted and many a throat choked as the curtain drops upon the singing of "Praise God from Whom All Blessings Flow."

The Man From Arizona
Lee Willard & Company will top the Reno for one night, Sunday, February 17, when they will present "The Man From Arizona," the play which has been produced with such great success recently in the metropolitan cities of the United States. The company concluded its successful week's engagement in Reno Sunday, night with "The Ragged Messenger," and the "Man From Arizona," the play which has been produced with such great success recently in the metropolitan cities of the United States. On February 21, Creton Clarke and company will present "The Ragged Messenger," a play which has been produced with such great success recently in the metropolitan cities of the United States. Other Attractions
Manager Piper has several attractions for this month and has been on the lookout to give the people of Reno the best of the best. Among the coming attractions at McKissick's are "The People of Japan," which comes on February 21, "Jury From Kary," on the 27, and the Howard & Dorsett Company which comes on February 28. This latter company will play a week's engagement, and it is sure to be a favorite among the local theatergoers. It is a strong repertoire company with a list of the best of the season's productions in its repertoire.

GOLDFIELD UNION SAYS KEEP AWAY

Yesterday there were posted up in conspicuous places about the city brief notices from the officers of the Goldfield miners' union, stating briefly that Goldfield is a good place to keep away from by all those looking for work, as there were three men or more already there for every job in sight in the mines.

This is a frequent notice sent from mining camps all over the country by unions, and is usually done for the purpose of preventing useless travel and expense by those seeking work.

A. J. WARD HELD ON BURGLARY CHARGE

Preliminary Hearing in Justice Court in Which a Five Dollar Piece Figures in a Very Interesting Way—
Captain Cagle May be Probed

Justice Bell had a larger attendance in his court room yesterday than has been present for some time. The star attraction being the preliminary hearing of A. J. Ward, who has been in durance ville since the twenty-seventh of December last on a charge of burglary, preferred by Jack Davis.

It developed at the hearing that on the night of the day named, the young man was seen to enter the cyclery owned by Davis on Virginia street, and make a hasty visit to the cash register, after which he came out and locked the door. About three-quarters of an hour after this he was arrested in his room by officers Alter and Cagle. Captain Alter asked the defendant at the time of his arrest what he had done with the five dollar piece he had taken from the cash register, and he had told them where he had hidden it under a book on a shelf in the room.

The money was found, and as it was a marked piece, it was retained and presented yesterday as evidence in support of the case of the state. This piece of coin was destined to play a considerable part in the preliminary hearing of the case, and for a time it looked as if Captain Cagle was in for a very serious time, which came about in this way.

The coin was exhibited, and afterwards District Attorney Moran moved to have it returned to the custody of Captain Cagle who would be instructed to retain possession of the same till called upon to produce it for evidence, should the case be sent to the higher court for trial.

To this arrangement Judge Jones, who appeared for the defendant, objected strenuously, stating that the law required that the exhibit be retained in the custody of the court, and that it could not, under the law, be retained in the possession of a witness for the prosecution.

District Attorney Moran argued that this practice had always been in vogue in the justice court, and recited feelingly what would happen to Captain Cagle, should he not be allowed to retain the coin, when the probing process of the higher court was inaugurated. He would be probed in all possible directions for the coin, which had it passed from his possession, he would be unable to identify again. In the court held that the captain should retain the money.

Ward was held to answer in the sum of $500, which amount he was unable to furnish, so was remanded to the custody of the sheriff.

ABOUT TOWN

The game of poker with all its old time solemnity and high principles, among the Prutes, has been rudely shaken from its historic pedestal, and in its stead has appeared that more modern, more certain and strenuous game, known to modern gambling science, as "Rocky-Mountain Gambling."

This game of chance was first introduced by one Cain, so far as history goes, but the noble red man of the savages of Reno probably learned it from some modern player. At any rate, Mike, a brute of much brown and muscle, presents a very battered appearance which he says is the result of a game of this kind, growing out of the fact that he had won, by sunbath acts of more or less cunning, in the game of poker, something like fifty dollars, which was coveted by bad white men, or possibly Indians, who laid for him a few nights since, and after chastening his naughty spirit, and battering him with a club, won his money while he was asleep.

R. H. Mathews and M. Gibson of Beckwith, have been in town during the past few days attending to business connected with their Beckwith interests. They are guests of the McCormack.

W. C. Simpson and Harry Mahar, two "prutes" who enjoy their job, left last night for Goldfield to develop the largest dream that ever came their way.

F. G. Tyrrell, of Goldfield, who with his wife has been touring California on a wedding trip, returned yesterday on his way home. He was registered at the McCormack.

Nick Carter of Virginia City is spending a few days in Reno visiting old friends and acquaintances.

Sheriff Wolf of Lovelock was in the city yesterday after a long illness.

Judge Bridges of Wadsworth, was in the city on business yesterday.

Indications as good as there is in the state for a gold copper mining proposition. No wildcat proposition. A chance to get in right for party who will take hold, push and develop at once. I have twelve claims of the Walker lake reservation showing values in gold, silver, and copper; surface values from $9.50 to $13.00 per ton; ledge forty feet in width, veinaceous 8,000 feet, throwing a genuine iron, Gosson coping. ALL CHINATOWN IS CELEBRATING TODAY

Joy, Roast Pork and Firecrackers are Unconfined Within the Precincts of the Celestial City, as This is the Time of the New Year

The atmosphere in the vicinity of the Chinese quarter will be rent this morning, and the rending will continue during the next few days, according to the extent and condition of the exchequer of the resident celestials and their visiting friends. All this will happen for the reason that this is the time of the advent of the glad some new year, when all celestial accounts are settled, and joy, roast pork, gin, firecrackers and fan-tan are unconfined.

The time of this yearly celebration varies somewhat each year, according to our calendar, owing to the different time systems employed and the time of its duration also varies, but this, as was explained to a Journal reporter yesterday by a Chinese merchant, by the statement that there were only about a hundred and fifty Chinese here, and that for the most part they were very poor, and their money would not permit of their holding wild revels as long as they would like to, or as long as the importance of the time warranted.

The reason for the celebration, the one holiday of the Chinese, being considered such an important event, lies in the fact that it is the date for settling all accounts for the year. If a Chinaman owes a fellow countryman anything, and the account is still unpaid at the time of the new year, the debtor must either settle it or bow his head in shame before the awful eyes of his Joss, as he is disgraced. It is true that he has ceased to be a debtor, not for the reason that he has liquidated the account, but because it is an invariable rule that all accounts must be settled at this time, and if they are not paid in the usual way they must be cancelled by the creditor, as bills standing longer than the year are no longer recognized.

It is said that very few accounts are allowed to lapse in this way.

BILL AT GRAND WILL BE COMPLETE TONIGHT

Through mistakes in the booking and inconveniences in the railroad time tables the opening bill at the Grand theatre last evening was short three acts, which Manager Cliff assures the public will be on hand tonight. The two acts and the pictures which comprised last evening's performance were good, especially Fisher and his daughter, clever contortionists.

The little girl of about ten years is the feature of the show so far. Fisher has few stunts but the turn is well put on, opening with special scenery and electrical effects showing the "Lizard and the Frog."

Carrollton and Hodges are two comedians, a bit dusky, who entertain with dialogue and a few songs, some new, some old. Their team work is the best part of the turn.

The pictures were fair, the film showing the story of jealousy in the underground tunnel between New York and Long Island where the foreman attempts the life of the superintendent, being the best. The scenes of the workmen and the methods of handling the rock from the jiggings is interesting. The "Fun After the Wedding," the "Mountain Climbers" and "Bobby and His Family" are the other pictures.

The missing members on the bill will be supplied tonight, making the bill complete for the remainder of the week.

THE CATHEDRAL FUND
Ticket number 538 proved the lucky number in the drawing for a one-acre lot in the Hubbard and Turner Heights tract at the Journal office last night. About 600 tickets had been sold. The numbers were placed in a hat and one ticket was drawn to decide the winner. The proceeds of the drawing will be given to the Catholic church building fund.

The couple were married in St. Augustine, Pennsylvania, in 1901.

DIVORCES GRANTED BY JUDGE PIKE

Judge Pike yesterday issued a decree of divorce to Eliza Byrne from Thomas Byrne, on the showing that the charge of extreme cruelty was well founded. The complaint alleged that the plaintiff had been subjected to great indignity and cruelty at the hands of the defendant, who had caused her to live with his relatives who had expected and exacted all sorts of menial duties from her, and that he had refused to provide a suitable home for her.

The couple were married in St. Augustine, Pennsylvania, in 1901.

A decree of divorce was also granted in the case of Terry vs. Terry in the same court.

THE CATHEDRAL FUND

Ticket number 538 proved the lucky number in the drawing for a one-acre lot in the Hubbard and Turner Heights tract at the Journal office last night. About 600 tickets had been sold. The numbers were placed in a hat and one ticket was drawn to decide the winner. The proceeds of the drawing will be given to the Catholic church building fund.

A decree of divorce was also granted in the case of Terry vs. Terry in the same court.

COMPANY PUTS IN TRANSFORMERS QUICKLY

Special Car From Virginia City Brings
Two Transformers Last Night To Take Place of Those Destroyed by Fire Yesterday—Engineer Burned.

The city was without light or power electricity for a short time yesterday afternoon as the result of a fire in the power station of the light and power company at the Flanigan warehouse.

The fire was caused by the blowing up of one of the transformers, probably due to an overcharge, which caused the other one to burn.

Frank Lausbaugh, an engineer in the employ of the Flanigan Company in its ice plant, received a severe shock at the time of the explosion, which knocked him to the floor, unconscious, and while the result of the infliction of some very painful, though not fatal burns.

An alarm was turned in, and the fire company, after extinguishing the flames, was recalled, and found that the smoke, arising from the fire had entered another building and it was this, issuing from the skylight, which gave rise to the second alarm.

Superintendent Pennell, without loss of a moments time, sent to Virginia City for two other transformers to be shipped at once to take the places of the two destroyed, and these came down on a special car last evening. The car was switched onto the warehouse siding, and the big transformers at once installed, so that such a thing had happened, the accident of yesterday could have been repeated last night and the city would have been provided with light and power as if nothing had happened.

RENO A PLEASURE RESORT FOR MAGNATES

The Alleged Reason For Three Special
Car Loads of Railroad Department
Managers Visiting the City Yesterday—Say This Is a Great Climate

Reno is fast becoming a pleasure resort of no mean order, as the array of special Pullman cars on the sidings in the vicinity of the depot bears eloquent and elegant testimony.

The city was yesterday overrun and besieged by railroad magnates from various places and of various magnitude, and the congregating of all this array is said by those who sit in high places to be due entirely to the fact that Nevada has a wonderful climate, and that there is more real pleasure to be had to the square inch than in any place known to the magnates within the radius of rails; hence the visit.

General Traffic Manager Stubbs of the Southern Pacific Company, accompanied by H. A. Jones, of the same company, having headquarters in San Francisco, arrived in one car; John Brock, president of the Tonopah and Goldfield road, came in another, and General Passenger Agent D. E. Burley and J. A. Reeves, general freight agent of the Oregon Short Line, with headquarters at Salt Lake City, traveled in the third car.

It was said at the general offices of the company yesterday that the parties would have taken aboard all the pleasure advisable at one dose within a day or two, at the end of which time they will leave for scenes less pleasurable.

THE RAILROAD SITUATION

(From the Goldfield Tribune)

What a pitiful spectacle is presented by the situation of General Manager White of the C. & N. R. road before the commission at Los Angeles that he was nothing more than a stool pigeon for Hartman. In the confidence game where the people are bungled out of their money the Clark road is employed to fill the devious office of a capper to draw victims to the net that is emptied by the train behind the scenes—the man who runs the game and draws all the profits better known as Mr. Hartman. At a former hearing the testimony of Mr. Clark was to the effect that while there was a working agreement there was nothing in the contract that could prevent the railroad from entering into competition. Who was lying the truth? Mr. Wells has added to the security of his job by confessing the facts and we may expect to hear that the tenure of his office will be very brief. He may as well resign his resignation without honor to the end of the season.

At present the statement was being accepted Goldfield was entering, Mr. C. A. Whittemore chief counsel of the Clark road who came fresh from his first job where he had been employed to displace the railroad's position who had defied public sentiment by voting against the corporation. Mr. Whittemore escaped the role of a disciplinarian and attempted to lead the assembly for the first time that had happened on the board of the directors.

For the first time in history he discovered that the people of Nevada had a will of their own and that they were no longer the subservient tools of the Southern Pacific. Before the railroad attorney had proceeded very far he was summarily checked in his diatribe by Senator Paine and forced to treat the legislative body with more courtesy.

Mr. Whittemore was loud and volatile in making promises but it now seems that he has no authority to deliver the goods. He came as a catspaw for Hartman, veiling his mission with the pretext that he represented a competing line that would free the people from the exactions of the Southern Pacific.

Fortunately, the announcement from Los Angeles comes in time to save the assembly from being hoodwinked and letting everybody understand that one man is master of the railroad situation in Nevada and that man is Hartman. He exercises control of the Santa Fe as substantiated by the same testimony, and if the law-makers expect any free offerings from that source they will find their confidence badly shaken six months hence. The only way is to establish a railroad commission and appoint men who may be relied upon to conserve the interests of the shipper and consumer. The appearance of a railroad lobbyist at the capitol resembles the Greeks bearing gifts, and there should be no dealings with such thinly veiled enemies.

SOME THAW DEFENCE TESTIMONY

(From the Oakland Tribune)

The testimony of Benjamin Boman, a member of the jury of the Madison Square Garden trial, will have to be taken into the jury for what is said to be an improbable tale. However, improbable the tale may be, it is a story difficult to contradict unless Boman can be impeached on his testimony. His story is such to cut in important figure in the case, although no sensible man would attach the slightest weight in a business transaction to such a yarn.

Boman's testimony illustrates how easy it is for a defense to be manufactured where the accused has unlimited money at his command, and has in his employ a corps of able and unscrupulous lawyers who are aided by a corps of even more unscrupulous private detectives. Boman tells of an alleged conversation he had with Stanford White, two and one-half years prior to the murder of White by Harry Thaw. No one was present when this alleged conversation took place, and the witness and White and White is dead. That White frequently came to the stage entrance of the theater being favored and popular with the management is well known, but that he should have exhibited a pistol and shot the life of Thaw under the circumstances is not, it is incredible. The police sergeant may be produced to swear that Boman told him that he did. Not one of those men and had the courage to rise on the floor of the senate and explain what his objections to the bill were. Then they come to the stand in the Journal and spend an hour or so to say the last and if they had been given what they were in prison could easily have been answered or explained away. Not one objection was made on the stand in the Journal.

Let us have law-makers who will stand up and tell the truth right from the shoulder. If they do not like a thing let them say so.

The Governor's Speech

GOVERNOR SPARKS was heard in his address at Comstock when he said that Nevada is not fighting the railways. Nevada is pursuing the only rational course, and is demanding a solution, but not confiscation.

We want all the railways that we can possibly secure and we recognize that railways alone can develop this state. We are not fighting the transportation corporations. On the contrary we are inviting them to come to Nevada and to assist in the work of upbuilding the commonwealth. But we do not want the railways to make all that is to be obtained out of the community. Give the people a chance to enjoy the fruits of what they themselves have developed. Let us have a fair division.

Just as the governor says, there is no time for radical legislation. Nor is radical legislation proper. This is any friend of Nevada. The Journal has been informed of the fact of the measure that is to be submitted to the legislature and speaking in the information we can say that the proposed law is not due to any sense. It merely sets forth the right of the people, a constitutional one, to fix the existing rates and to control them. Under this bill the railway companies will be given a simple opportunity to appear either before a new commission or a court and if their case is just they will not be injured. In deed, if their case is just they should not be afraid to appear.

Governor Sparks speech shows that he will not veto any such law and decent men who may be passed by both houses and come to him for his signature. His message to the legislature demonstrates that he is with the people. In this matter and it is a certainty that the people are with him. We do not want to intimidate capital but we do want to regulate railway rates—that is the whole thing in a nutshell.

While on this subject the Journal wishes to say too that the people are not pleased with that kind of legislation who will not give his reasons for voting the way he always can. If our representative has any sense to a bill let them state what they are otherwise we might as well have a bunch of photographs at Carson City. They do not have to be orators to explain their votes. Let them get up and in plain and simple language tell why they oppose a bill. This fighting in the dark is unfair to the people and is far from right.

You remember the other day the Journal sent to the different legislators who had voted against the proposition to have an investigating committee and asked them to explain their votes.

The Editor, Nevada State Journal
Reno Nevada—Dear Sir: Permit me to express to you on your able editorial of the 10th on False Weather Forecast. It is very gratifying to find an editor who will make a crusade for science as against fraud and error.

The work of the weather bureau in forecasting has its element of error, which is due to the as yet incomplete knowledge of the subject of meteorology. This fact cannot be deplored by any one more than by the weather bureau official who must experience the chagrin of an erroneous forecast. Great work is being done by the present chief of the bureau to find the basis for more accurate forecasts. Not only is this being done but it is thought that in the near future forecasts of the general nature of coming seasons may be issued far enough in advance to be of considerable value to the farming and commercial interests of the country. These forecasts will not say that destructive storms will prevail over the great central valleys from the 3rd to the 6th or thereabouts, but will aim to tell whether the average temperature and precipitation will be below or above the normal. C. R. Stanley, Vice-President and Treasurer (President Goldfield Brewing Company. References, any bank or business man in Goldfield).
John Hayes, Secretary, (of Hayes and Monnette. References any bank or mining man in Goldfield).
Tim Connolly, Superintendent, (formerly of the Frances Mohawk Leasing Company. References, any bank or mining man in Goldfield).
It is a singular fact that the two men, John Hayes and Tim Connolly, in charge of the work upon and directly responsible for the success of the Hayes & Monnette lease and the Frances Mohawk lease respectively, from which more gold has been taken than from all other Goldfield mines combined within the same period of time, are both actively connected with this company.

Location:

Right in the heart of the proven high grade mineral belt, the ground personally selected by Mr. Hayes and Mr. Connolly, on the Laguna property of the Goldfield Consolidated Mining Company, bounded by the Kewanas on the north, Booth on the west, Red Top on the south and Red Top X and Jumbo X on the east. Within 75 feet of the Laguna main shaft, 40 feet of the Red Top X shaft, 75 feet of the Jumbo Extension shaft, 150 feet of the Kewanas shaft, 600 feet of the Red Top shaft.

The Laguna Company's diamond drill, within 75 feet of the Laguna Merger lease line, exposed $600 ore at a depth of about 300 feet. On the Laguna Merger it will require about 400 feet of sinking to get under the same body of ore ready for crosscutting.

The Goldfield Consolidated took all precautions to ascertain the presence of high grade ore on the Laguna before admitting it to the merger, consisting of the Red Top, Goldfield Mining, Mohawk, Laguna, Jumbo and Combination mines, all of them proven to be the greatest mines in the world.

Of Interest to the Investor:

The stocks of companies immediately adjoining are selling at follows.

Kewanas	$1.90
Booth	$1.00
Red Top	$4.00
Laguna	$1.70

Only 250,000 shares of Laguna merger stock will be offered.

100,000 shares at	10 cents
100,000 shares at	15 cents
50,000 shares at	25 cents

The price is made extremely low, the amount realized, as above, being sufficient for developing the lease, no other funds are necessary, the directors having personally paid in cash for the ground privileges, personal property, supplies and labor to date, and there is no other indebtedness.

There is no lease on the adjoining properties selling stock for less than 25 cents per share.

The stock will be listed on the San Francisco, Reno and Goldfield Exchanges.

It will take about 3 months to sink the shaft and do all necessary crosscutting. When this is completed the ore can be blocked out for shipment at the rate of 300 tons, valued at $30,000, per day, figuring on an average of only $100 per ton. Working three shifts daily, it is possible to take out about a million dollars worth of ore per month.

Proven ground, exceptionally reliable management and low price of shares, make the Laguna Merger stock the best investment on the market.

A LARGE PORTRAIT OF ABRAHAM LINCOLN

NOT only was Abraham Lincoln the greatest story teller who ever lived, but he was the hero of more good stories than any other man in America's gallery of heroes. Admittedly, nothing so effectively throws the light upon the private and public career of any celebrity as the little anecdotes and incidents which are seldom a matter of official or historic record.

Lincoln delighted to tell of the high price which he as a small boy paid for a copy of Weems' "Life of Washington." He had borrowed the book from a neighboring farmer, and was so unfortunate as to leave it near an open window, where a drenching rain verily damaged it. He went over to the owner and made a clean breast of the matter, whereupon the magnanimous farmer said: "Well, Abe, so long as it is you, I won't be hard on you. Just come over and pull fodder for me for a couple of days and I will call it square."

The martyr president was known as a man who preferred peace whenever possible, but he could fight upon provocation. On one occasion during his boyhood the town "bully" cut red the store where he was employed as clerk and raised a disturbance, ignoring the clerk's requests that he behave himself. "Well," said Abe, finally, "if you must be whipped, I suppose I may as well whip you as any other man," and he not only proceeded to give the ill-behaved visitor a thorough thrashing, but rubbed "smart weed" into his eyes until the fellow bellowed with pain.

This recalls the fact that when, in 1837, after his memorable duel with General Shields, Lincoln was asked by a friend why he had chosen broad-swords as weapons instead of the customary pistols, he remarked: "I did not want to kill Shields, and felt sure I could disarm him, having had about a month to learn broad-sword exercise; furthermore I didn't want the damned fellow to kill me, which I rather think he would have done if we had selected pistols."

It was while Lincoln was clerk in the store above mentioned that he received the nickname of "Honest Abe." On one occasion, after closing the store at night, he walked four miles to refund a few cents to a woman whom he had unintentionally overcharged for a purchase. History has given great prominence to the fact that as a young man Lincoln split rails for the necessities of life, but is silent as to the terms upon which he performed this arduous work. The rail splitting was the means of securing not only food and board, but also clothing. At one time the hard-working young man made a bargain with Mrs. Nancy Miller to split 400 rails for every yard of brown jeans, dyed with white walnut bark, required to make a pair of trousers—no small contract, since the rail splitter was tall and ungainly.

Lincoln was appointed postmaster by President Jackson, and inasmuch as he did not have to be tied down by duties of the office, he hit upon the novel expedient of converting himself into a portable postoffice. Whenever he had occasion to go about he carried all undelivered letters in his hat, and any patron of the office who wanted his mail had only to locate the postmaster in order to secure it immediately.

The first political speech made by Lincoln was delivered in 1832, when he was 23 years of age. It was on the occasion of a debate, and his opponent, the rival candidate had wearied the audience, so Lincoln contented himself with the following: "Gentlemen, fellow-citizens: I presume you know who I am. I am humble Abe Lincoln. I have been solicited by many friends to become a candidate for the legislature. My politics can be briefly stated. I am in favor of the internal improvement system and a high protective tariff. These are my sentiments and political principles. If elected I shall be thankful. If not, it will be all the same."

After Lincoln entered the state legislature his fellow-members had no end of fun with him. They teased him unmercifully about his large feet, and once when he complained of cold a quick-witted confederate remarked that it was no wonder he was cold "there is so much of him on the ground." However, Lincoln had a way of turning the joke on the other fellow in the most unexpected manner.

The witty statesman was always willing to join in a laugh at his own expense. He never tired of gleefully recounting an experience when traveling when a fellow-passenger on the train gravely informed Lincoln that he had something that belonged to him. When the future president inquired what it was his new acquaintance produced a pocket knife and said: "This knife was given to me some years ago with the injunction that I keep it until I found a man more homely than myself. Now I think you are entitled to the property."

During the Civil War a committee appeared before President Lincoln and demanded the removal of General Grant because, as the spokesman put it, "He drinks too much whisky." "By the way, gentlemen," dryly remarked Lincoln, "can any of you tell me where General Grant procures his whisky, because if I find out I will send a barrel to every general in the field." For all that Lincoln was broad minded, he was personally most temperate. On one occasion when he entertained a party of politicians who plainly expected some liquid refreshment he had a huge old china pitcher brought in and announced: "Gentlemen, we must pledge our mutual healths in the most healthy beverage which God has given to man. It is the only beverage I have ever used, and I cannot conscientiously depart from it on the present occasion—it is pure Adam's ale from the spring."

At another time when a delegation of weak-kneed financiers had descended upon the White House with expressions of misgivings as to the way the administration was conducting things Lincoln met their dire forebodings with the statement: "Now, gentlemen, suppose all the property you were worth was in gold and you put it in the hands of Plondin to carry across the Niagara river on a rope, would you continually shake the cable or would you hold your breath? The government is carrying an immense weight. Keep silence and we will get you safe across."

Lincoln's fondness for children was repeatedly illustrated, but in no manner more forcefully than by his love for his son Tad. Not even Tad's prank of waving a confederate flag from a second story window of the White House while his father was making a speech to Union veterans directly below seriously ruffled the patient president. At one of the White House receptions a little shaver as soon as he entered the main door shouted lustily, "Hurrah for Lincoln." The president made no sign that he observed the incident, but when the movement of the long line of callers finally brought the youngster before the president, Lincoln tossed the diminutive guest toward the ceiling and shouted out, "Hurrah for you."

Denver People Exploiting On An Extensive Scale Valuable Holdings in Donnelly Mountains and Willow Creek Districts—Rich Tributaries

That the country north of Reno is rich in mineral is being demonstrated in a manner that surprises even those who have long been acquainted with that section of the state.

Discoveries of immense interest to those who are investing their money in Nevada mines and stocks have been made in what is known as the Donnelly Mountain and Willow Creek districts, situated about 160 miles north from Reno and some thirty-five miles west from Seven Troughs. Several years ago fabulous rich ore was found on Donnelly Mountain, and the location has been developing it into a mine. During 1906 considerable work has been done, attracting many prospectors, and 1907 will see a lively camp there.

Directly west, at a distance of eight miles, is the Willow Creek district where J. Harman of Denver, is developing a silver lead property that returns from $200 to $250 per ton from a strong vein that has been proved for more than 600 feet in length and two and a half feet in width. This property is being actively developed. Adjoining this property a large number of locations have been made that promise to add largely to the showing already made. Prominently among these are the Yellow Wasp, and the property owned by the Tohoku Extension Mining Company, that are believed to be equally rich. This district is attracting a great deal of attention and men of capital are investing their money assured that this is one of the coming great camps of the state.

The building of the Western Pacific Railroad is adding to this interest, as it will pass within a few miles of these mines.

The roads are good, water plentiful and timber within easy reach, and stopping places all along the roads make the district easy of access. A townsite has been arranged for and the opening of spring will see a bustling camp at Willow Creek.

MOHAWK MINE PAYS $100,000 BULLION TAX

One hundred thousand dollars paid in taxes by the great Mohawk mine for the nine months ending December 31, 1906. Startling indeed are the figures for the quarter ending August 30, $20,000; for the quarter ending December 31, $60,076. This does not include fifty-two cars of exceptionally high grade material for which no return has yet been made and neither does it include an enormous amount of low grade, milling material taken out during the same time which has not been worked.

The actual net amount on which this tax was paid was $2,154,581 and of course does not show the cost of extraction, transportation and other payment, for under the law it is the net output on which the tax is paid.

This is certainly a phenomenal tax for one concern to pay to a state; nearly $11,000 a month, and still richer coming. And this is official for it is taken from the books of Hon. Jas. H. Neven bullion tax collector of Nevada.

Without doubt this is the largest tax ever paid to a state on a net bullion output on a single mine, but there are many others in the state of Nevada which will be heard from in thunder tones. Neven has certainly been untiring in the discharge of his duty for he has made seventeen trips to the southern camps in the past two years, twelve of which were made in 1906, and at times these trips were made without regard to his physical condition for the writer knows that once or twice he was really ill but the call of duty was sufficient incentive to Jim Neven. At no time has Neven relied entirely on reports furnished his office but has endeavored to personally satisfy himself that these reports were true. At stated periods Neven has visited every district in the state having business with his office.

The whole state is in a remarkably prosperous condition and the taxes which the producing mines are paying are not only wonderful now but daily rapidly increasing and when the present contemplated combinations, the capacity of many plants increased and other improvements made, there seems no reason to doubt the prediction made sometime since of an annual output of $100,000,000 is not unreasonable.

The saloons are increasing at the rate of five a day and the receipts from this source will greatly increase the revenue.

GOVERNOR SPARKS TALKS ABOUT NEVADA

Nevada's Chief Executive Agrees With What the Journal Has Said and Would Encourage Roads But Endorses Regulation

CARSON CITY, Feb. 11.—The speech made by Governor Sparks on the railway question while at Tonopah has excited considerable comment. Some of the governor's friends were disposed to believe that he would get in and roast the railways to a finish, but the governor took a conservative course that has won for him many supporters and has undoubtedly assisted the cause of railway reform.

The following is a verbatim report of the speech:

"My Friends—Three or four days ago I received a telegram from the board of trade of Goldfield inviting the whole body of legislators and their wives to visit Goldfield. Later an invitation was extended from Tonopah. Personally I was more than pleased to have the legislators avail themselves of this glorious opportunity to see this wonderful, productive country, and to enlighten them on the true, actual state of affairs that do exist in this great mining camp, and to study the actual requirements, especially at this time when bills of vital importance are pending. As members of this legislature have never seen this wonderful country I thought the visit would enlighten them and enable them to exercise their judgment, more practically, to enable them to deal with legislation now at issue. Gentlemen, I did not bring my staff with me, as it has not been uniformed or equipped with horses. But, gentlemen, I have with me the ablest body of men that Nevada ever saw and that is the legislature.

"Now you know that this state has very little agricultural resources, and therefore it is dependent on the railroads for the development of this state—and railroad we must have. Gentlemen, this is no time to be fighting with the railroads. We are doing all right. We have had four new railroads in the last four years. And we want two more railroads in the next two years—and these are promised.

"This is no time for radical legislation.

"You know that the eyes of the world are on this state, and you, in these last few days, have seen the requirements of the railroads, and have seen the thousands of tons of ore only waiting to be moved, and the number of mines awaiting shipments of working material and fuel which have been delayed in transit because of limited transportation facilities.

"Therefore, I say, gentlemen, whatever you do, do not punish or discourage the railroads for the next two years; but legislate such measures as will be fair and conservative to the railroads and to the people as we are dependent on the railroads for that glorious success for the future of the new Nevada, which now confronts us.

"There will shortly be built a branch line to Ely, which will tap the greatest mineral belt in the known world, and open up all that glorious country which now lies dormant because of the lack of railroads. Therefore I trust that we will have no radical legislation at this time.

"As I remarked before, we are doing all right, and I feel assured that the railroads will help us both for their own benefit, and for the benefit of the people of these desert camps, and for the whole state of New Nevada. So let us have lots of railroads, the more the better."

Passes Barred

CARSON CITY, Feb. 11.—During the remainder of the session of the twenty-third legislature railroad passes will not be used by any member of the senate or assembly.

Passed a few days ago in the lower house, the Huskey concurrent resolution which provides for the abolition of all passes was swept through the higher body this morning.

Fourteen senators favored the resolution, two were absent, and it was left for Senator Woodbury of Ormsby county to place himself on record against the movement. Woodbury did not commit himself on the floor.

Reports from the various parts of the "GOOD OLD U. S. A." prove that prosperity is reigning. Are you sharing in this prosperity? There's no reason why you shouldn't obtain the best wagons your money can purchase. This is possible at all times if we are favored with your orders. Call and look over our complete line of wagons and vehicles of every kind and description and make your selection from our stock.

Flanigan Warehouse Co.

of the upper house, yet he voted a very decided "no." In explanation of the stand he took, the Ormsby county senator stated that he thought the resolution was not for the best interest of the legislature.

With the capital crowded by railroad lobbyists and the holders of passes open to the supposed influence of the lines on which they are issued, the feeling is expressed here that the abolition of the pass will aid the people's fight for conservative regulation.

The measure which is credited to better interests of the state reads: "Whereas, the state of Nevada has by law provided for the payment of mileage sufficient in amount to cover the traveling expenses of each and every member of this legislature from his home to the state capitol and return, and,

"Whereas, the people of the United States and our federal government have come to look upon passes and other forms of transportation furnished by railroads to representatives of the people in our law-making bodies not only as a means of gaining an undue influence, but as an offense in the nature of a crime, and

"Whereas, the members of this legislature have been elected by the people greatly in need of good, effective, well considered legislation on the subjects of railroads and railroad rates, therefore, be it

"RESOLVED, the senate concurring hereto, That it is the sense of the legislature of the state of Nevada that none of its members shall, after the adoption of this resolution receive, accept, keep or travel on any pass, free ticket or other form of free or reduced transportation which may be, or may have been, offered to or given to him by any railroad, directly or indirectly, or which may be sold to him at any rate lower than like transportation is sold to the general public."

So tonight and tomorrow when the member of the legislature make the trip to Reno or leave for their homes they cannot legally use passes on the railroads. The resolution's provisions are effective during the entire session of the twenty-third legislature.

The Southern Trip

CARSON CITY, Feb. 11.—The senate and assembly will meet Wednesday tomorrow being a legal holiday.

The legislative party which returned to Carson this morning, was met at Tonopah by a committee of prominent citizens, and escorted to the hotels. In the evening a banquet was served in the Eagle pavilion. The leaders of Tonopah society entertained the visitors—Messrs. Hugh Brown, J. P. O'Brien, F. A. Keith, C. C. Turner, Gater, L. A. Gibbon, Harry P. Shilton, George Thatcher, Key Pittman, J. F. Hedden, Zeb Kendall, A. G. Haycraft, Bert Smith, James McQuillan, Sam Dunsen, L. G. Branson, James Morris and Grimes.

Lieutenant Governor Dickerson in a brief address thanked the hosts in behalf of the Nevada legislature for the reception accorded. Senator T. L. Oddie spoke on the early history of Tonopah and said that his list of $25 resulted in the development of the famous Mizpah mine.

Key Pittman an attorney and self-declared "champion of the people," spoke for the railroads. He said in part:

"What Nevada needs is lots of good railroads, and not cheap ones. The present railroad rates are cheap enough, let us not lower them. Do not prepare your railroad bills with radical provisions. The state is treated all right by the lines which are doing business today, and we should give them another chance."

ANNUAL STATEMENT

Of the Bullfrog Searchlight Mining and Milling Company.

For the purpose of complying with an act of the legislature of the state of Nevada, approved March 28, 1901, being Chapter CVIII, of the Sessions Laws of Nevada, for the year 1901, the Bullfrog Searchlight Mining and Milling Company, a corporation under the laws of Arizona, doing business at Hawthorne, Esmeralda county, and Searchlight and Crescent, Lincoln county, Nevada, publishes the following statement for the year 1906, to-wit:

Purchased eleven mining claims, three of same being situate in the Searchlight Mining district, two in the Crescent mining district Lincoln county and six in the Alum Creek mining district, Esmeralda county, Nevada.

The annual assessment work was done on all of said claims by the company for the year 1906 and about $1000 additional was expended on the property in development. The company has about three hundred and fifty thousand, ($350,000) shares of stock in its treasury and no debts.

I certify that the foregoing is a true and correct statement of the business of said company for the year 1906.

tion attorney's remarks. Speaker Skaggs of the assembly cautioned the audience against the tendency of some of the prominent Nevadans to throw down the state at a critical time. He said that railroad regulation at present is imperative for the good of the state. Skaggs favored the rate law and the railroad commission bill.

Assemblyman Frank Folsom told of the new railroad rate regulation bill, and his remarks were met with approving looks.

C. O. Whitmore of the Las Vegas & Tonopah railroad favored the lines in the state. Whitmore was sure the state could not do without the lines, and he defended the high rates in a speech that resembled the one delivered in the senate here a few days before.

Railway Rate Petition

CARSON CITY, Feb. 11.—The following petition is being freely signed in every town in Nevada:

"To the honorable the legislature of the state of Nevada we, the undersigned citizens, taxpayers, business men and shippers of Goldfield address your honorable body, in this the twenty-third session of the Nevada state legislature for the following reasons:

"Whereas, The present system of railway rates to and from this section of the state of Nevada is unfair, onerous and confiscatory, not only of goods shipped in as supplies, but upon all classes of machinery and upon all ores shipped from the mines in this section, thereby retarding the progress of all interests in this region, and

"Whereas, We believe that the legislature at present assembled at the capital of the state of Nevada is earnest and conscientious in its beliefs and in its efforts to render relief to the people of the state, and

"Whereas, We believe that the only relief that can be obtained at this time must come through proper legislation regulating rates, fares and methods of transportation, as framed by your honorable body, we your petitioners request; That you give your most careful attention and earnest consideration to this subject, to the end that the state of Nevada shall be at once relieved of the onerous, confiscatory and burdensome rates, fares and methods of transportation now imposed upon us."

MUCH IN LITTLE

At the present rate of increase the population of Europe will double itself in a century.

Over 200,000 pounds weight of paper is used in this country yearly for the manufacture of cigarettes.

India's cotton acreage this year is nearly a million larger than last year. The output is a record—5,105,000 bales.

Consul D. R. Birch, of Malaga, reports that no Spanish olive oil will find its way into the American market during 1907.

Mary Mauske, 13-year-old daughter of a Wheeler, S. D. farmer, hauls a load of wheat daily to market and sees to its disposal.

The production of copper in the United States has increased from 27,000 long tons in 1880 to 426,000 in 1906 and the United States now furnishes over 57 per cent of the world's supply.

TWO HOSPITALS

Two more cases of Bright's Disease that recovered after the treatment in hospitals had failed and life was despaired of.

One is John H. Gyselaar, the well-known merchant of Eureka, Cal. He was in the Lane Hospital in San Francisco for three months. Was so swollen with dropsy that he had to be tapped every ten days. He was steadily sinking when his family took him home and put him on Fulton's Renal Compound for Bright's Disease. The tapings ceased and he began to mend and is now perfectly well. Everybody in Eureka knows of his miraculous escape.

Another case is that of Mr. T. J. Mulloy of 2316 Bryant St., San Francisco. A few months ago he was in the U. S. Marine Hospital in that city, and was so low with Bright's Disease that his sister, Mrs. French, was advised by the physician in charge that a fatal end was inevitable and close at hand. She took him home and put him on the same treatment that saved Gyselaar. He recovered and five months later returned to his employment. Write either of the above if you question this.

Bright's Disease and Diabetes are curable in 87 per cent of all cases by Fulton's Compound. Send for literature. Jno. J. Fulton Co., 6910 San Pablo avenue, Oakland, Cal.
